RAIL LABOR ACT BEFORE COURT

Carrier Claims Law Deprives It of Liberty and Property and Is Invalid

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Sept 1 An attack on provisions of the railway labor act authorizing collective bargaining between representatives of the employes and the carriers was filed in the supreme court yesterday by the Virginia Railway Co

It contended that the act passed in 1926 and amended in 1934 violated the Constitution by depriving it of liberty and property while attempting to regulate labor relations with employes engaged in interstate activities

The railroad appealed from rulings by the eastern Virginia federal district court and the fourth circuit court of appeals asking it to negotiate concerning disputes with a unit of the American Federation of Labor

In an election conducted by the national mediation board the act the railroad and the brotherhood of railway and steamship clerks named as representative in collective bargaining by system federation number 40 of the railway employes department of the american federation of labor instead of by the company union

It was started by Jervis Langdon jr in 1934 in federal district court to enjoin the railroad from interfering with trade union activities and from refusing to bargain collectively with the duly designated representatives of its employes

In its brief the railroad said the supreme court decisions protecting the legislature's right to prohibit yellow dog contracts did not sustain the validity of the labor act

Burns

DOCTORS HAVE known for some time the frequency of extensive burns Regardless of the cause such an accident may lead to serious and even fatal complications Stomach and intestinal ulcers inflammation of the intestines or bladder neuritis eye inflammation and even arthritis may be late complications of a severe burn

Neglect or faulty care of a burn leads to serious scarring and permanent disability Heart trouble and other complications may set in within the fourth or fifth day or even earlier It will be seen how essential it is to receive immediate care for this serious accident

Everyone should be familiar with the emergency treatment of a burn Until the doctor arrives gentleness and relief of pain are important Since shock is the immediate effect of an extensive burn every effort should be made at once to deal with the pain and shock Then the burn can be given care As soon as the doctor arrives he probably will give a hypodermic injection of some sedative The patient should be encouraged to drink fluids freely

Within recent years great strides have been made in the treatment of burns with tannic acid The application of tannic acid causes the burned tissues to become tanned and leatherized The raw surfaces are covered with a firm coating which acts as a protective dressing This prevents the absorption of toxins and poisons from the burned area

Other preparations similar to tannic acid are now available But I mention this form of treatment now in use since 1925 because it is safe and easy to apply

The acid is used in varying strengths from a two and a half to a ten per cent solution It may be applied as a spray every ten to fifteen minutes for the first few hours and then every hour until the tanning is complete

Of course the prevention of burns is far more important than their treatment Burns usually occur in the household from carelessness in the handling of hot liquids such as water tea soup or grease

HUGE NORTH DAKOTA CROWD GREETS PRESIDENT ON TOUR

Here is part of the huge crowd which turned out to greet President Roosevelt as his special train arrived in Jamestown N D on his tour of drouth stricken areas of the northwest. Accompanied by his son Franklin Jr the President addressed the crowd from the rear platform Later the presidential party moved out of the drouth area to continue to Salt Lake City where the chief executive planned to attend the funeral of Secretary of War Dern (Associated Press Photo)

DAKOTA LEADER LAUDS LANDON'S FARM POLICIES

Claims State Has Soured on Roosevelt as Result of AAA and Will Return to G O P Banner

By J [illegible] Kraus

TOPEKA Kan Sept 1—Problems besetting farmers in the nation's drouth areas wedged a notch deeper into the presidential campaign last night despite efforts of both major parties to keep a non political label on their relief

Down from sun scorched North Dakota came Gov Walter Welford a Republican to echo Gov Alf M Landon's pronouncements that fundamentally the problems of all the agricultural states are the same as those his administration has wrestled with in Kansas

Gov Welford complimented Gov Landon on his splendid understanding of problems of American agriculture and industry State Sen John K Brastrup chairman of the North Dakota Republican committee said the state is showing a definite trend to Gov Landon which even President Roosevelt's non political visit to our state could not offset

Out of Topeka went the third appeal of the Kansas governor for a joint agreement among railroads for emergency railroad rates on feed for the states drouth areas

Welford said that after reading the Republican farm plank and receiving Gov Landon's personal views on soil conservation policies he found himself in complete accord

I am especially impressed with his pledge in his acceptance speech to continue benefit payments to the farmer and to make the tariff effective for agriculture as well as for industry Welford said

North Dakota is traditionally Republican and while it gave Mr Roosevelt a majority of 100 000 in 1932 it will definitely be back in the Republican fold this year Opposition to wholesale crop destruction and the reciprocal tariff agreements have soured North Dakota farmers

Welford said President Roosevelt's tour had been nicely received and that he did not believe that there had been any waste of relief funds in that state

Back in 1933 hundreds of these hogsheads packed full of mild, ripe tobacco were rolled into our warehouses to age.

Everybody knows how ageing improves fine wine. Well, ageing improves tobaccos the same way —adds aroma and flavor.

Now three years later, these same mild ripe tobaccos are being made into Chesterfield Cigarettes.

Mild, ripe tobaccos make a milder better-tasting cigarette. When you smoke a Chesterfield you'll notice they have a different aroma . . . a more pleasing taste . . . they're better!

MILD RIPE TOBACCO . . . AGED 3 YEARS

Harry Instructs Women to Retire to Bedroom Before the Arrival of the "Chief"

ANYTHING more laughable than Katie when her feminine weaknesses or her detective[illegible] course can not be imagined We of the farm house family remember vividly the combination of hilarious amusement and annoying contretemps which were the daily portion of us and our maid struggling with her course in the detection of crime put out by some fly by night authority

When and finally finished it revealing an orrately written diploma and a large metal badge big enough to be a Constable we needed slaps of relief between guests of laughter both carefully concealed from Katie for we felt no one of us would willingly hurt

Curiously enough there have been several occasions since then when Katie has allied materially in solving some problem confronting us finding upon at least one occasion a solution to a problem concerning Mary which had baffled us all and made us exceedingly uneasy for fear there might be another masked dancer episode in the offing

We were all sure that Katie's native shrewdness and ingenuity were responsible for her success but she attributed everything to her beloved correspondence course and her pride in it and her frequent boasts about it were highly amusing although we all recognized the unconscious pathos in them

There was no pathos however in this latest reference of hers to one of her correspondence school [illegible] [illegible] never never never love you [illegible] Alas we peered on [illegible] ders As are declaimed [illegible] the morning maid laugh [illegible] Katie and we were all grateful Harry Underwood when he returned quickly

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marian Sims

... by Marian Sims

... Carol realizes that ... she has tried not to fall ... with her employer, Blake ... that is exactly what ... done. And he with her ... is married to a selfish ... years older than he, who ... divorce him, and there ... little that they can do about ... matter. Carol just has been ... early in the morning by ... call from the husband ... of her college friends, ... in distress.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR
Disaster

"... just taken Little Hal ... hospital to—be operated ..." ... reverberated in her ... mind. Mastoid. She ... "Oh, Harry..." and was ...

... wanted to know if you'd ... sit with her while they— ... I'll have to go back and ... Dollie until the girl ... at five now..."

... course I will! Where are ... Martin's. Would you take a ... come back here as soon ... possibly can."

... course. But wouldn't you ... me stay with Dollie so ... you can be with Margery?"

"No, I'll stay at home." She guessed that the blow had so staggered him that he wanted to be sure of Dollie.

"I'll be there inside half an hour."

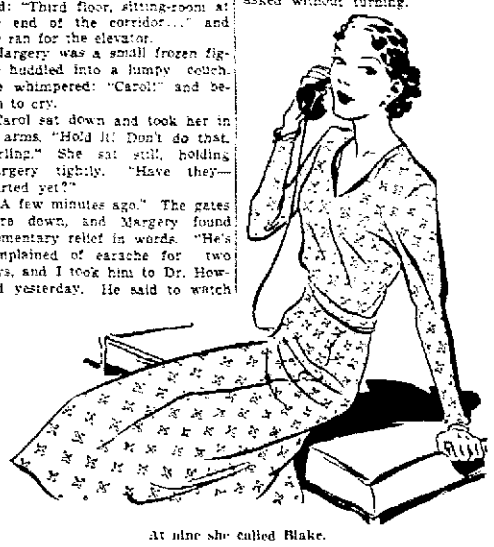
She hung up the receiver and snapped on a light, then called a taxi before she began to dress.

The taxi was waiting when she came down ten minutes later. At St. Martin's the switchboard girl said: "Third floor, sitting-room at the end of the corridor..." and she ran for the elevator.

Margery was a small frozen figure huddled into a lumpy couch. She whimpered: "Carol!" and began to cry.

Carol sat down and took her in he arms. "Hold it! Don't do that, darling." She sat still, holding Margery tightly. "Have they—started yet?"

"A few minutes ago." The gates were down, and Margery found momentary relief in words. "He's complained of earache for two days, and I took him to Dr. Howard yesterday. He said to watch it carefully and let him know at once if the pain got worse....He waked up about half-past three, screaming, and when I called Dr. Howard he came right out, and we brought him here...." Her voice faded.



At nine she called Blake.

"Then you must have gotten hold of it promptly, and that's the main thing."

She wondered if that was true. She knew nothing of the ways of mastoid, but the words had a confident, comforting sound.

"Have you had anything to eat?" Carol demanded.

"Oh, no. I—it would make me sick."

"Not coffee, I'm going and see if I can't rustle some."

She found a young nurse who said, Yes indeed, she would see that they had coffee right away.

Minutes stumbled past. Coffee came, and inside and outside the hospital the world stretched and yawned and made noisy preparations for another day. Sunlight stole between two walls and poured its pale gold on the floor at their feet. At intervals Margery asked from the loneliness of her anguish:

"What time is it?" and her voice was small and unmodulated, like a child's.

"Twenty-five minutes of eight."

"He said it would take about two hours, probably." She turned to stare at the doorway. "Harry ought to be here before long. I—wish I had my knitting; I was making him a sweater to wear to kindergarten...."

Harry came a few minutes later, looking gray and drawn, walking unnecessarily on tiptoe. He went to the couch and put his arms around Margery, and Carol got up and stood at the window with her back to them.

"Shall I clear out now?" she asked without turning.

"Please don't," Harry said. "Unless you think you really ought to. If he—stands it all right—I'll have to keep two appointments this morning."

Business as usual. Because, Carol knew, he would need his commissions more than ever, to cope with all this. Well, having to carry on would perhaps be better than this.

A sound in the doorway brought them to their feet, white-faced and silent and questioning. Dr. Howard stood there, dragging a white cap from his head.

"So far so good," he said, and his steady voice sounded loud and clashing in the hushed room. "He went through it better than we could have hoped for. We got it just in time..."

Margery whimpered with relief, and Harry's arm tightened about her shoulders.

"How soon will we know anything?" he asked hoarsely.

"I can't exactly tell. He won't be out of the ether for some time—maybe an hour." He eyed them keenly. "Why don't you go home and get a hot bath and some breakfast?"

They stirred and sighed. Harry said: "I guess we will do that. Thanks, Doctor."

In the car Margery said: "Carol, can't you come on home and have breakfast with us?"

She shook her head. "No. I'll get a bath and put my clothes on properly, and have breakfast downstairs in the tea-room. Would you like for me to sit with you while Harry is away?"

"Oh, if you would!" Margery whispered. "Mother will get here late this afternoon, but I'd be so glad to have you if the office can spare you."

"I'm sure it can."

She was immeasurably touched by the fact that Margery had turned to her.

At nine she called Blake and told him, as steadily as possible, what had happened. "I hope it's all right?" she concluded.

And tomorrow Blake's reserve breaks.

GUARANTEED RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Common constipation is usually due to meals low in "bulk." Pills and drugs give only temporary relief. The sensible thing to do is to put "bulk" back into your meals.

Millions of people get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Its "bulk" is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system.

Some years ago, an investigation was made among thousands of ALL-BRAN users. 98 per cent found it satisfactory. Only 2 per cent had the type of constipation that would not respond to ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily, either as cereal or in cooked dishes. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

WISE'S

—: The :— Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

"AMONG THOSE PRESENT"

It must be something of a shock to the co-respondents named in a big divorce case to discover that they are only "one of a crowd."

It is bad enough to be front page news in somebody's divorce suit, but to be listed only as "among those present" must be positively face-reddening.

There is just one thing that few men and no woman can stand—and that is the humiliating discovery that, instead of being the bright particular star of somebody's romantic affections, he or she was merely one of the footlights.

And yet, it is hard to understand why they are always so surprised to find themselves classified as only part of the "evidence"—Exhibit A, B, or C, as the case may be. When a woman lets herself in for a hectic romance or even for only a little flirtation with a married Romeo, she should realize that she is betting on an awfully long shot—that, with him, making love to an attractive woman is probably automatic; and that he is merely looking for distraction and filling in his spare time, while he fights it out with the Little Woman at home.

And a man who lets himself fall head over heels for another man's legal mate should have the common sense to perceive that, while he may be her One Big Romance, the testimony may show that he was merely one of the consolation prizes or a temporary balm to her wounded vanity.

When a husband and wife start battling, the wisest thing for the innocent or not-so-innocent bystander to do, is to sprint for the great open spaces. Because, when the battle reaches the courtroom, there are going to be a lot of stray shots, and neither of the chief belligerents is going to carry who gets hit, just so the case is won.

Gangster warfare is almost gentle and humane beside a legal battle between a determined man and an incensed woman, who once vowed to love, honor and cherish each other.

Married Romeos and married Juliets who are suffering from disappointment and disillusionment may appeal to the sympathy of women and the protective instinct of men. Besides, while they are in that mood, they are usually impressionable and very easy picking. But they are about the poorest speculations in the love-game—and the biggest hazards.

A love-affair with a disgruntled wife or a disappointed husband may seem intriguing and glamorous because it is adventurous. But there are enough hazards, love shots and sandtraps in a simple legitimate romance, without purposely driving out of bounds.

In the average courtroom battle, some people sympathize with the wife and some with the husband. But the real sufferer, who needs sympathy, is the innocent bystander, who finds himself "among those present" when the cross-questioning begins.

If you must have adventure and danger, go to Spain, where they are saving it with bullets—not with subpoenas!

LABOR WARNED BY COL. KNOX

Candidate Claims Federal Policy of Taking Sides in Disputes Is Un-American

URGES FREE ENTERPRISE

Declares Role of Government Should Be That of Umpire To Keep Peace

By The Associated Press

ROCKY POINT R I Sept 1—Col Frank Knox Republican vice presidential nominee asserted today that labor which until our time fought its own battles benefited from keeping out of party politics

He added in an address prepared for a rally and clambake here that a government partial to one form of labor organization or another is "un American"

The role of government in labor relations Knox said should be that of umpire seeking to preserve decency and order and protect victims

Know the world the nation built the richest and happiest and kindest social order the world has ever known and it is free enterprise and economic freedom of the system its apostles discard

He said the present administration was spending ten million dollars a day more than it was taking in a sum equal to the annual wages of 9 000 men

It would build every day about a thousand new and attractive homes he said Since the new deal began it has spent the equivalent of the wages of about 2 500 000 men working at fair wages for a whole year

Wages do not and cannot be set by law Knox told an open air rally in moonlit Hamilton park last night at Waterbury Conn they are set by the productivity of the land the capital and the worker himself When government attempts to set wages it only disturbs industry and lowers total wages

The candidate conceded that protection of women workers and young workers against exploitation is a proper function of government but argued that the workers as a whole must better conditions by their own effort

CHILTON MAY FACE NEW PRISON FIGHT

quest for extradition is denied

Numerous friends and representatives of Cleveland civic organizations who had come to give support to Chilton now more than 40 and growing bald rushed to congratulate him

Prosecutor Shakes His Hand

For a moment he seemed not to realize what the governor had said Wallis himself who had pleaded that Chilton's return was essential to maintenance of the trusty system in Oklahoma, was among the first to shake his hand

Then Chilton said almost inaudibly I'm awfully glad Gov Davey did not send me back I hope now Gov Maryland will grant me a pardon

His wife and her 14 year old son took his arm and they left the statehouse to return to Cleveland

Wallis presenting his request declared the welfare of 1 500 inmates of our penal institutions is at stake in this case He said the freedom of all trustees would have to be curtailed if Chilton were not returned

To say that other trustees would escape if Chilton is allowed to remain in Ohio Gov Davey replied in his decision is hardly a sufficient argument in my judgment If they did and made good as Mr Chilton has we would all be better off

Wool Market

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Sept. 1—Moderate buying of domestic wools was reported by Boston markets today. Prices showed a firm to strengthening tendency.

Combing ¼ blood territory wools were sold this week at 71@73 cents, grease basis. Graded lines of fine territory wools of good French combing and staple lengths brought 80 cents, grease basis. Fine Ohio delaine wools were moved at 35@36 cents in the grease which was estimated at near the high side of the range. 8/10 cents, scoured basis.

Rails and Few Specialties Only Issues Showing Life Despite Good News

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 1—Rails and a few specialties attracted timid buying in today's stock market but the list as a whole ended in a retreat.

Business news generally seemed encouraging and the initial response to favorable factors and earnings was fairly well absorbed.

Bonds ... ended ... Grains were mixed. Cotton pushed higher. Foreign currencies were quiet.

Allied Chemical ... ... one ... go back 2 points of its 10-point drop of yesterday. Also ... unchanged ... as much as a point or ... ahead were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Packard, Sears Roebuck, McLellan Stores, Chrysler, American Commercial Alcohol, Deere, New York Central, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Great Northern, Waldorf System, Mack Truck, Colonial & Aikman Creseys, Radio, Anaconda, Consolidated Edison, American Chain, American Can and Goodyear.

Domestic business ... continued to offset ... to a considerable extent nervousness over foreign affairs.

Rails were said to be expecting ... an ... improvement ... during ... September. Force cases were blame of an increase in distribution this month of 10 to 15 per cent over the comparable 1935 period.

The French franc was off 001/16 of a cent at 6.58 7/16 cents and sterling was up 3-16 of a cent at $5.03⅜ in initial foreign exchange transactions.
